

Cooking the Continent

An adventure through food

13x60' HD

Technical Specifications

Title: Cocinando Sudamérica / Cooking the Continent: South America

Producers: Cooking the Continent audiovisual collective.

Director: Sebastián Aravena.

Executive producer: Mariela García.

Main Character: Oliver Ross.

Art and Photography: Gabriela González.

Sound: Martín Lorie.

Locations: Chile, Bolivia, Peru, Ecuador, Colombia, Venezuela, Guyana, Brazil, Paraguay, Uruguay, Argentina.

Year of shooting: 2013.

Current State: Postproduction ending on January, 2015

Format: Documentary series, 12 episodes, 48', Full HD.

Genre: Road movie, cultural, food and travel.

Language: Spanish and English (Subtitled, with dubbing option)

Calification: All Audiences. Focused on people between 20-60's with interest in travelling and food.

Contact: www.cookingthecontinent.tv - contact@cookingthecontinent.tv

Teaser: <https://vimeo.com/108020595>

Sinopsis

A group of friends formed by 4 Chileans and a New Zealander chef, decide to travel around South America to discover by their own its culture and people through food. After meeting in Santiago de Chile, they start the journey heading north, across 11 countries, getting to know its traditions, sharing with producers, street cooks, gastronomists, chefs and popular characters, in a big adventure and no less trouble.

Through this series, you can see South America from its people and food intimacy, reflecting the popular culture, getting away from touristic circuits. We get into the everyday lives of South American people. Our goal is to show this different realities to the world.

